

HOTEL'S GREAT PIPE ORGAN

Largest Musical Instrument of the Kind in America is in the Hotel, New York.

The Hotel Astor, in New York, boasts the largest pipe organ in the United States and one of the largest in the world. A pipe organ is an innovation in hotel fixtures, and as such is of more than usual interest. The great organ represents all orchestral instruments, and its many speaking stops, nearly 100, make the tonal resources of the instrument almost inexhaustible. It is divided into four distinct divisions, the main organ occupying two chambers on the east and west sides of the ball room. The other two divisions are arranged on either side of "L'Orangerie" room. Completely hidden from view by the decorations of the walls and ceilings, the music comes as a surprise. The pipes, varying from 32 feet in length to only a fraction of an inch, are hundreds of feet away from the playing cabinet containing the keys and stops, and each one is operated by its individual train of electro-pneumatic action. The pressure of a key gives current to a wire that finds its way through various cables and switches to a magnet, which operates pneumatic mechanism that opens a valve and gives pressure to the pipe.

HAYTIAN CUTLERY SALUTE

Steward of Naval Vessel Put Knives and Forks in Gun and Hotel Was Punished.

Discipline aboard men-of-war belonging to tropical countries is not as strict as that obtaining on the vessels of colder countries. Indeed, in some instances, it is very lax. The Defense, a Haytian naval vessel, was lying in the harbor of Port-au-Prince. One day a mess cook, for some reason, cleaned about a peck of knives and forks on the gun deck, and, being suddenly called away, and not wishing to spend time to go to the galley, he seized the messpot full of knives and forks and stuck it in the muzzle of the ten-inch gun, putting the ammunition in after it. About an hour afterward the admiral came aboard, and as the gun was loaded with blank cartridges, they used it to fire a salute. It happened that the gun was aimed toward the town, and almost point blank at the Grand Hotel. The guests assembled on the porch to witness the ceremonies, when they were saluted with a rain of knives and forks, which struck against the wooden walls like quills on a porcupine. Fortunately no one was hurt, although there were many narrow escapes.

Need for Two Collars.

Having bought a dog that he admired a Washington Heights man undertook to buy a dog collar. The dog had a neck nearly as big as his head and the dealer advised the man to buy two collars. "What for?" said the man. "He's got only one neck, so I guess he can't get along with only one collar, can't he?" "Maybe not," said the dealer, so the man went away leading the dog by his neck collar and chain. In less than a week he brought the dog back. "I'm afraid I can't keep him," he said. "He is too obstreperous. I can't keep him tied up. His neck is the biggest part of him and he is as strong as an ox, therefore it is a sin for him to slip his collar off." "That is why I wanted you to take two collars," said the dealer. "Put both on and fasten the chain to the back collar and he can tug away all night without getting loose. He may commit suicide, but he won't get loose."

Plague of Monkeys.

Awaking from her sleep to find that 18 monkeys had taken possession of her house and were appropriating themselves in her parlor and dining room, was the recent experience of Mrs. Lippman, Los Angeles. Mrs. Lippman tried to dislodge the monkeys, but failed. The following day she appeared at the prosecuting attorney's office and demanded a warrant for the arrest of Antonio Ryder, her next door neighbor, who she asserts instigated the invasion. Ryder is a trainer of monkeys and dogs. Two of his canines, which preferred Mrs. Lippman's clothes basket to their own kennel as sleeping quarters, were poisoned recently. Ryder suspected Mrs. Lippman of administering the poison and she asserts he has his hand of monkeys into her house in an effort to be revenged.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather that was not visible beneath the knot were so interwoven that it was impossible to untie it. It was for its fame as a "knot" that it reached the great Alexander, who declared that the lucky conqueror should be rewarded by the kingship of Phrygia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the ends of it.

Clever.

"Mrs. Putterly is tickled to death with the way she fooled the customs inspectors."

UNCLE HIRAM TO HIS NEPHEW

On Something Important for Him to Realize in His Relations With Men.

"Steve, my boy," said Uncle Hiram to the hopeful young nephew, "you may not be old enough yet fully to understand or at least fully to realize what I am about to say to you, but I'd better say it now for I might forget to say it later, and some day, and perhaps to your advantage, you will recall it, the thing I would now say to you being this: "Other people think of us what we think of them. "Do you get that through your noddy? Other people think of us what we think of them. "This is highly important, because it applies to our inmost, unuttered thoughts. If we think ill of a man he will think ill of us. So you want to think well of men. "Our thoughts of other people appear to form a sort of circuit returning from them to us. They go out from us to the fellow we are thinking of, who seems to relay them back to us. Whatever our feelings toward him may be, good or bad, he takes them in, relays them, with strength from his own batteries and sends them back to us, with a feeling of friendliness if that was our instinctive feeling toward him, while if our feeling was one of antagonism that is the feeling that he relays back to us. "Don't think of men, Stephen; think well of them, as you may well do; there is more good in men than bad. Cultivate friendly relations and friendly feelings, and be sure that as you feel toward men so will they feel toward you."

QUEENS BOROUGH TIN HORSES

How Nightmares, Hobbies and Ponies of Beer Were Put on the City's Pay Roll.

"What's all this talk I hear about tin horses in Queens borough?" "I'm surprised at your ignorance. Tin horses are a mere term used to designate equines which never existed and are a graft game." "Explain some more, please." "Well, it was like this: If a fellow with a pull wanted some extra money he would have a couple of nightmares report to the powers that be that he had a team, and they would be hired, at so much a day, for city work." "Did all of the grafters have to have mares?" "No, no, one of the gang had his wife's two clothes horses, drawing full pay."

He was a genius.

"Yes, another man had a hobby about not wanting to work, his son had a hobby horse, and so he doubled them up and sent in bills for a team, at least, so I hear." "That's interesting." "Yes, rather. There was a rumor going around the other day that a man who owned a pair of ponies of beer also figured in the game." "I suppose if one of the gang's wife and daughters owned pony skin coats they could have got on the pay roll too."

Some Korean Superstitions.

The wildest superstitions are "rite among the natives of Korea, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine. Everything is ascribed to the good or evil influences of invisible spirits, whom they strive to propitiate by incense and petty sacrifices. The serpent is revered as sacred and fed as a domestic pet. Marriage is a question of etiquette and is arranged by the parents. A live goose is given as a betrothal gift, a symbol of fidelity and long life. Filial piety is cultivated to a remarkable degree, a son considering it his duty to follow his father to prison or exile. Sacrifices of pigs, sheep and goats are offered to the firmament to which they pray for rain or fair weather and the removal of plague and misfortune."

America Claims the Bean.

Until 1883 the bean was believed to have originated in Asia. Researches among the flora of ancient Peruvian apulchres show that it was known in antiquity in Peru. No fewer than 50 different species have been found in the old burying places and 48 of the 50 were distinctly American. An apulchre explored dated back to the period beginning with the twelfth century and ending with the fifteenth. Within them was a great number of beans—so many that it is reasonable to suppose that beans held an important place in the agriculture of the ancient people of Peru. Probably the common dried bean of modern commerce was well-known in the antique world long before the discovery of Columbus.

"Fifty Lucre."

The expression "fifty lucre" is of biblical origin, and is to be found in the third chapter of the first book of Timothy, where the qualifications necessary for the office of a bishop are thus set forth: "This is a true saying. If a man desireth the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work. A bishop must then be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, of good behavior, given to hospitality, apt to teach; not given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre; but patient, not a brawler, nor contentious."

HARVEST THE YEAR AROUND.

Fruits of the Earth are Being Garnered Continually.

"Our Thanksgiving celebrates the garnering of the harvest," said a clergyman, "and a fine poetic festival it is. But did it ever occur to you how various are the harvest times of the different nations of the world?" "January is the harvest month of the Chileans, of the Australians, the Argentine folk and the New Zealanders."

"February is the harvest of India—February and a part of March."

"The Egyptians, the Persians and the Syrians harvest in April, while the Chinese, the Japanese, the Maroccans and the Algerians harvest in May."

"The Spanish, Greek and Italian harvest time is June; the Russian and Austrian is July; the English, German, Dutch and Canadian is August; the Scandinavian, Scottish and Welsh is September, while the northwesternmost part of Russia, Norway and Sweden do not gather their harvest until October."

Prison Conditions Bettered.

One effective result of the suffragette movement of Holloway jail in England and the constant complaints of the "votes for women" prisoners as to their treatment there, is a new scheme which has just been framed by the home office. In future women prisoners between the ages of 18 and 28 will be separated from hardened criminals and will receive lessons in sewing and dressmaking. A committee of ladies will also assist them to obtain situations when their sentences have been served.

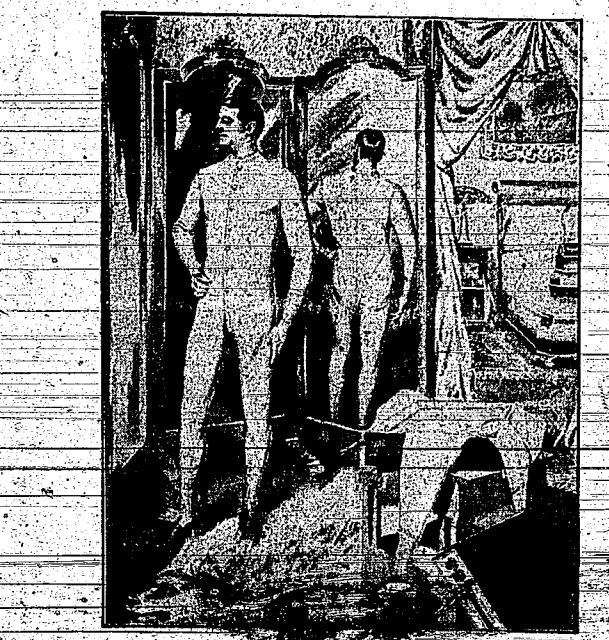

Waterproof Paper.

Japanese waterproof paper is made of fibers of bamboo and eucalyptus mixed with fibers of the amyl and other shrubs. The fibers are torn apart, dried, cleansed, scraped, boiled in weak dye and washed with water. They are then beaten and mixed with a viscous infusion of certain roots and a solution containing camphor, caoutchouc and resin. The sheets formed from this pulp are calendered at various temperatures. The paper is light, washable and very difficult to tear. It is used to imitate leather and India rubber and for a great many other purposes.

Post Cards.

The invention of postal cards is attributed to a gentleman of Vienna, Austria, and the first ever used were issued by the Austrian government in 1869. They were adopted in England, Germany and Switzerland in 1870, the United States in 1872, and the first cards issued under the act were sent out in May, 1873. The return postal card has been in use in a number of European countries before it came in use with us in the early eighties. We have imported and vulgarized the illuminated postal card within the last half a dozen years or so.

Theft of a Corpse.

A creepy story of the mysterious disappearance of a corpse comes from Vergere, France. A short time ago a young woman named Alexandrine Labrent died at Vergere, and was buried in the Catholic cemetery. A few days ago Alexandrine's mother died, and the relatives decided to bury her in the same grave as the daughter. When the grave was uncovered it was found that the bier had been turned upside down. The coffin, an oak one, was intact, and on being opened, it was found to be empty. The girl's body has disappeared absolutely.

Farmers Buying Autos.

The number of automobiles owned by farmers is growing rapidly. Out of 10,000 autos in Iowa, 5,000 are owned by farmers. Kansas farmers own 25,000 autos for automobiles during 1909, and 42,750,000 in 1908. In one Nebraska town of 500 population, 40 autos were sold last year to farmers near the town and retired farmers in the town. Careful estimate of the number of automobiles owned by farmers in the entire United States is 70,000.

No Royalties Called "Baby."

One noteworthy feature about royalties is that none have been called "baby." From their earliest years the children are always called by their names, or possibly by some pet name, but an English price of a price is never called "baby" either by relatives or by his (or her) nurse. From the age of five a price is called "sir" by his attendants, and a princess "madam."

HomeCircleDepartment

A column dedicated to Tired Mothers as they join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

Crisis thoughts as they fall from the Editorial Pen—Pleasant Evening Reveries.

The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sit the whole chair of existence, everything goes to the wind but the happiness we have had at home.

All about us are beautiful homes, which are mere pauper homes, so far as happiness is concerned, because of some one member of the family who is a petty tyrant, a nagger, a peace destroyer.

In hours of exuberance and exultation or joyous merriment, in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the home, duties and commonplace labors of the day, or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.

There are six secular nights in each week. Out of the six some men spend one at home and five at lodge, while others spend five at home and one at lodge. In which class shall we register your name.

We are coming to understand that all the prayers and baptisms and communions which the churches can bestow upon us will not make us Christians, so long as we think mean, uncharitable thoughts of one another and permit our minds to be filled with malice, envy jealousy, gloom and despondency.

Work is a moral and physical uplift. It is a panacea for sorrow; idleness brings moral decay and furnishes an incentive to crime. The avalanche of crime that is sweeping over our beautiful land is largely due to the fact that too many would rather steal than work. The life of duty, not the life of mere ease or mere pleasure, is the end of life which makes the great men and women. The best prize that offers is the chance to work at work worth doing.

A word of encouragement at the right time is of more real worth than an ounce of gold. It is more nourishing to the soul than meat and drink to the hungriest. It is better stimulant than the richest wine, and the strongest lever to lift from the ruts of despondency. Many a poor overworked wife is pining for a word of sympathy from her husband. Just one word, one look, to show that the toil of weary hours is appreciated, and the light reflected would more than recompense the giver.

We have often wondered why mother's memory and hands must serve for a dozen persons. Would it not be better for all concerned if mother's kindness contained more of self-assertion and less of self-sacrifice? Would not, at times, papa feel less disturbed, nay, wealthier, if he were careful to keep his own papers in order, and perform the other twenty trivial things he has time to do in leisure moments, but expects of some one else? Would it not be better for sister to teach baby, who is old enough to button his own shoes, than to do it for him each morning as a duty?

Don't wake your boys and girls up mornings with "Hurry up and get up and come on and feed the horses, and milk the cows; for we've got a lot of work to do, and it's getting late, so hurry up, or we'll never get through." Is that very pleasant to hear the first thing in the morning? Don't hurry so much, but take time to live and to see a pretty flower or listen to the happy notes of a little bird, enjoy all these beauties of nature as you go along through life. Are you surprised that your boys and girls begin to show dissatisfaction with their homes and long for city life, when at home is too much hurry, hurry all the time—hurry and do your work? Yes it grows monotonous, and they see that each day brings them no newness, the world then the day before, so they lose interest and grow to hate those daily duties that are all hurry and work.

If the motto "keep sweet" was lived up to in the new year would not our little world of home be the better for it? Even if its influence reached no further would it not be worth the while? To "keep sweet" one must possess a happy unconcernedness of self and enthusiasm about the little things that all the honors of every day and an absence of malice and envy. One must have a bright outlook on life and a courageous heart. Such an outlook and such a heart are invaluable to the housewife. They cheer herself and those under her influence. "The hand that moves the world" surely should pulse with high courage that comes from a brave, true heart.

This column is published weekly in the hope that it may awaken in the part of the husband and child a deeper appreciation of her who is the central figure of home; that it may strengthen the family bonds, making them more beautiful and tender; that it may encourage charity and breathe hope for the future, where language is music and love is law. We trust this department may to the young brighten and deepen the pleasures and memories of home, while to the advanced in years something may be said that will bring to view the reflected radiance of a golden dawning. We should be pleased to occasionally hear from our readers who appreciate this department. It does no harm to drop a word even in the pathway of an editor whose road seems ever to lead among the thorns.

How much happier we would all be, if we would attempt to build instead of tearing down; how much sweeter our lives would be, if we would encourage, by kind words, those of our fellow-men and fellow-women who have fallen by the wayside; extend a helping hand, whisper words of encouragement in their ear, and on how much brighter our lives and theirs would be. Give no heed to the Tattler and Gossipier, turn a deaf ear, and tell them that you are otherwise engaged, when you find them inclined to talk and very soon the tattlers will find their profession gone.

Kills A Murderer.
A merciless murderer is Appenderia with many victims, but Dr. King's New Life Pills kill it by prevention. They regulate the stomach, liver and bowels, preventing that clogging that invites appendicitis, curing Constipation, Headache, Biliary Colic, Chills, etc. at A. M. Lewis & Co.

The Doctor's Question

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders

A Doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98% of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Reckall Orderlies are a positive pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we "promise" to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Reckall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c and 10c. Sold only at our store. The Reckall Store, A. M. Lewis & Co.

New York, March 25.—One hundred and fifty souls—nine-tenths of them girls from the East Side—were crushed to death on the pavements, smothered by smoke, or shriveled crisp this afternoon in the worst fire New York has ever known since the steamship General Slocum was burned to the water's edge off North Brother's Island in 1904. Nearly all, if not all, of the victims were employed by the Triangle Shirt Waist Co. on the eighth, ninth and tenth floors of a ten-story loft building at 21 Washington Place, on the western fringe of the downtown wholesale district. The partners of the firm, Isaac Harris and Max Blanck, escaped unscathed from the office on the tenth floor, carrying with them over an adjoining roof Blanck's two young daughters and a governess. There was not an outside fire escape on the building.

State Universities throughout the country have, during the past few months, been submitting to their respective legislatures their requests for support for the years of 1911 and 1912. A comparison of the sums asking almost twice as much from the legislatures of those states now in session as the University of Michigan is asking of the Michigan legislature, while the state of Minnesota is asked by the University of Minnesota for almost three times as much as the University of Michigan petitions for.

British House of Lords.
The house of lords is almost as old as the British people. Away back in the days of the Heptarchy we find the assembly known as the "Witenagemot," or "Council of Wise Men," composed of the leading men in church and state, which assisted the king in the making of the laws of the realm. Naturally, under the circumstances, these big men became the "whole thing," so to speak, and in the course of time they became the "Lords," temporal and spiritual, making up the present "house of lords."—London Standard.

When Father Was a Boy.

I've been thinking of the good old times when father was a boy. When a man was honored for the good he done;

And if he proved to be pure gold without to much alloy.

He received the due respect of every one.

If some man had more than others of the gifts that God bestowed, And was worth ten thousand dollars, he was rich;

But it did not give him reason to monopolize the road.

And crowd his poorer neighbor in the ditch.

In them days a man with plenty was considered rather odd, If he did not with the needy share a part;

And the ministers, they used to preach about the love of God That was shed abroad in every human heart.

The people nearly all of them believed with one accord, A nd daily truth without the bible read;

None seemed to have a reason to ever doubt the word.

Of the one who had not place to lay his head.

And when a young man loved a maid, he loved her as his life.

To protect her from sorrow he would die;

And if she loved him well enough to be his wife,

He would read it in the twinkle of her eye.

The boys they used to hustle round and do the chores each night,

And give old tired dad a chance to rest;

Old dad could sit and smoke his pipe, he knew that all was right.

For he knew the boys would do their very best.

The girls they did not go each night out walking on the street,

But stayed at home and done as they were bid;

And the boys would bow politely when young ladies they would greet,

And not yell out, "Hello Kiddo, Oh, you kid!"

The girls were not afraid to take the broom from mother's hands,

To relieve her from all burdens was a joy;

They could make the dishes rattle and scour the pots and pans,

That's the way it was when father was a boy.

And when a couple vowed to love 'till death to have and hold,

To keep through health and sickness all the while;

There were none could separate them for silver or for gold.

For divorce had not come to be the style.

I wish that I had been a man when father was a lad,

That would have been impossible, I know;

But when I think about those times, it always makes me glad,

To believe, because my father told me so,

Hair Health

If You Have Scalp or Hair Trouble Take Advantage of This Offer

We could not afford to so strongly endorse Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it as we do, if it did not do all we claim it will. Should our enthusiasm carry us away, and Rexall "93" Hair Tonic not give entire satisfaction to the users, they would lose faith in us and our statements, and in consequence our business prestige would suffer.

We assure you that if your hair is beginning to unaturally fall out or if you have any scalp trouble, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will promptly eradicate dandruff, stimulate hair growth and prevent premature baldness.

Our faith in Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is so strong that we ask you to try it on our positive guarantee that your money will be cheerfully refunded if it does not do as we claim. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Sold only at our store. The Rexall Store, A. M. Lewis & Co.

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN
The Probate Court for the County of Crawford
At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office, in the Village of Grayling in said County, on the 17th day of March A. D. 1911.

Present: Hon. Wellington Batterson Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of George W. Baker deceased.

Clara McPherson, widow of said deceased having filed in said court her petition praying that the administration of said estate be granted to Allen B. Failing, or to some other suitable person.

It is ordered, that the eighteenth day of April A. D. 1911, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office, be and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition.

It is further ordered, that public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, for three consecutive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Crawford Avalanche a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

WELLINGTON BATTERSON, Judge of Probate.

A true copy.
Wellington Batterson, Clerk.

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is told by him. "I am older than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely. The results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, family complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness, and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50c at A. M. Lewis & Co."

Notice Patrons.

I hereby announce that I am in the field to take orders for all kinds of nursery stock, for the Perry Nursery Company, for this spring delivery, the largest in the world. The most beautiful roses to be had, at very special rates. It pays to hold your orders till I can call.

Respectfully,
JOHN H. TOBIN

For Sale.

The County of Crawford offers for sale the old County Infirmary, situated on Ogema street, east, consisting of a nine room house in good repair, and two corner lots. Cheap for cash, or liberal terms on part. For price see, see A. Taylor, Chairman of Building Committee.

As the new minister of the village was on his way to evening service he met a rising young man of the place, whom he was anxious to have become a member of his church.

"Good evening, my young friend," he said, solemnly, "do you ever attend a place of worship?"

"Yes, indeed, sir; regularly every Sunday night," replied the young fellow, with a smile. "I'm on my way to see her now." Metropolitan Magazine.

It will be sent upon request to Director R. S. Shaw, East Lansing, Michigan, and asking for special Bulletin No. 54.

While the Township Board, of South Branch township was holding a meeting at the home of the Clerk, John Floeter, Tuesday, smoke was discovered through the window and on rushing out to learn the cause, it was found that the roof of the house was in flames and in spite of all that could be done, the house was entirely consumed. Fortunately all of the furniture was saved. This is a hard blow to Mr. Floeter, as he carried no insurance. —Hoscom News.

The Wille-Buell Co., which owns 50,000 acres of hardwood lands in Oscego and Cheboygan counties, has decided to open the land for settlement and for that purpose has placed it under the control of a New York colonization company. The company will bring in a desirable class of people and will sell each section 80 acres of which 40 may be reserved as a wood lot. It is expected that the settlers will have enough money to clear the land and will be independent from the first. In case any settler has not sufficient money to erect buildings they will be put up for him by the company. It is expected that it will take several years to settle the tract. —Bay City Tribune.

Episcopal services at the Danish Church Tuesday evening April 4 at 7:30 P. M. All members and friends of the church are earnestly requested to be present as this will probably be Rev. Mitchell's last visit to Grayling since he has accepted a call to a more distant parish.

The time to buy, is when the owner wants to sell. Mr. J. F. Kraie, of Maple Forest, two miles east of Fredrick has decided to sell his stock, tools, etc., at Public Auction next Tuesday, at one o'clock p. m. There is a lot of good stuff, in cows and calves, tools etc. See add, and Bills for terms.

Marvin Post, G. A. R. No. 240, are giving thanks to E. M. Bates, for a finely arranged inkstand, set in a piece of Laurel root, from the battlefield of Lookout Mountain, which he obtained during his recent visit there and at the Convention at Chattanooga. A number of our comrades were there during the "unpleasantness" in the early 60's, and the name brings to them most vivid recollections.

In our last issue regarding the St. Patrick day in Fredrick we omitted to make mention of the kindness of the Frederic Band Boys and also of the Brennan Orchestra, who were so kind and gave their best services to make the entertainment a pronounced success. The Frederic Band, although a new and recent organization, is certainly making great strides towards perfection, and the citizens, as well as outside friends, appreciate their efforts and liberality for the boys are always willing to "be there" at any social or charitable function. The Brennan Orchestra is composed of members of the E. J. Brennan family, a prominent merchant of Fredrick, and one certainly marvels at their musical genius and talents. They, as the Band Boys, are always ready to help make a social and charitable function a pronounced success. Again, Band Boys and Brennan's Orchestra, many thanks for your services during the supper and home talent play on St. Patrick's day, May 17, 1911.

Vote of Thanks.

Marvin Post No. 240 G. A. R. extend a vote of thanks to the E. J. G. A. R. for their generous donations to the Post funds.

Saginaw Presbytery.

As heretofore announced the Presbytery of Saginaw will meet in the Presbyterian Church of Grayling on Monday evening at 7 p. m. and will continue over the following day and evening.

It is expected that the popular meeting Tuesday evening will furnish some rare features of interest.

Among the rest it is expected that a missionary, home from his African field will be present and address the meeting. Everybody is invited.

Union Meeting Saturday Eve.

A layman's meeting in the interest of a world-wide Gospel will be held in the M. E. Church of Grayling next Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

Good speakers will be present and all are invited.

It had been expected to make this a meeting for men only, but as others will doubtless be glad to attend it has been thought best to make the invitation general.

When the senate meets (which will be in a few days) the first item on the calendar will be the good food bill. This is an important bill, one that all are depending on, and we predict that it will pass without any opposition. There are many more items on the calendar but we have only space enough to mention one more: How will we protect our heads from the deadly gore.

Election Notice.

To the electors of the County of Crawford: You are hereby notified that at the general election to be held in the County of Crawford and in the State of Michigan on Monday the 3rd day of April 1911, the following amendment to the constitution is to be voted on, to wit:

Vote on Amendment to Section nine of Article eleven of the constitution relative to the apportionment of primary school interest money.

Amendment to Section nine of Article eleven of the constitution relative to the apportionment of primary school interest money, by adding the following words: "If any school district shall on the second Monday in July of any year have on hand a sufficient amount of money in the primary school interest fund to pay its teachers for the next ensuing two years as determined from the pay roll of said district for the last school year, and in case of a primary district, all tuition for the next ensuing two years, based upon the then enrollment in the 7th and 8th grades in said school districts shall not be counted in making the next apportionment of primary school money by the superintendent of public instruction; nor shall such children be counted in making such apportionment until the amount of money in the primary school interest fund in said district shall be insufficient to pay teachers' wages or tuition as herein set forth for the next ensuing two years."

For witness whereof I have hereon set my hand and seal this 23d day of March 1911.

The manager of a suburban music hall was testing the abilities of several candidates for stage honors one day last week, and this is how he let down one of the would-be funny men:

"I'm sorry, my boy, but your songs won't do for me. I can't allow any profanity in my theater," he said, not unkindly.

"But, my dear sir, I do not use profanity," replied the aspirant.

"No," asserted the manager, "but the audience would." —Metropolitan Magazine.

AN EYE!

A normal eye, or a pair of eyes, is something the possessor can well be proud of, as such are so very scarce, one rarely sees them.

This then being true don't you think it would be wise for you to have your eyes examined, to see if the are not responsible for some of the suffering you are forced to bear?

Pain oftentimes far remote from the eyes, due to nervous reflexes sometimes is caused by an abnormal eye. Should this be the case

GLASSES properly fitted is the only thing that will give permanent relief.

I will not sell you a pair of glasses unless you need them. You can be sure of that.

Beware of the "EYES EXAMINED FREE" man, for his game is to sell you a pair of glasses whether you need them or not. What does he care for your welfare as long as he gets your money?

Your interest always comes before mine, and should I discover it is medical treatment you are in need of, you will be frankly told so. Can I do more?

THE LEGISLATURE AND ITS WORK

THE LEGISLATURE HAS DEFINITELY DECIDED TO ADJOURN ON APRIL 19.

LEGISLATION IS BEING RUSHED THROUGH AT TREMENDOUS SPEED IN AN EFFORT TO ACCOMPLISH SOME THING.

Representative Fitzgibbon's Long Expected Unit Bill Promises a Merry Fight Between "Wet" and "Dry" Forces.

By L. C. Ward.

To Adjourn on April 19.

The legislature has definitely decided to adjourn on April 19, the house having passed the senate concurrent resolution fixing that date.

The resolution occasioned considerable of a battle in the house as a number of the members objected to it on the ground that practically no important legislation had been passed and that fixing the date of adjournment now meant that many important matters would have to be neglected.

House Now Working Feverishly.

As a result of the fixing of the date of adjournment the house has at last got down to business and is really accomplishing something, although at the same time proper attention is now being given to many bills of importance.

Legislation is being rushed through at tremendous speed and bills are being ignored in the anxiety of the members to accomplish something before the legislature adjourns.

Unit Bill in at Last.

The long anticipated unit bill, which changes the unit of the submission of the local option question from counties to townships, villages, and cities, has been introduced in the house by Representative Fitzgibbon, of Port Huron, and there promises to be a merry fight over it as the Anti-saloon league is strongly against the measure.

Many drys are for it, however, as the bill would enable townships and villages in counties which have big cities to vote dry where they are now kept wet by the big city. Under the same reasoning it would enable cities which have expressed a desire to become dry to vote dry by the county of the city. The Anti-saloon league is against the bill because it would practically do away with the collecting of money in large sums to fight for prohibition. However, where the sentiment of a community was really dry the proposed law would work out well and where such a sentiment exists it is also easy to stop the sale of liquor, something that cannot be done where the sentiment is really wet as in the case in a number of cities which were voted dry by the county votes.

Osborn for a Second Term.

In a letter to a friend written several days ago, Gov. Osborn practically admitted that if there was a demand for him to run again that he would do so. He has been asked to run again, which was in answer to one inquiring his attitude, he says that he is not a candidate but with reference to a demand by the people that he will "cross that bridge" when he comes to it. This is taken in Lansing to mean that the governor will undoubtedly be a result of the prospective candidates who have been ignoring on getting into the race are up in the air.

Governor Signs Tax Bill.

Gov. Osborn has signed the bill which gives back to the state the commission the powers it enjoyed before 1905. This means that the board will take up the matter of reviewing the state's tax for the purpose of putting the general public on an even footing.

The House taxation committee has also reported out the White bill, which passed the Senate, and which empowers the commission to engage mining experts to make an appraisal of the mining property of the state. It will undoubtedly pass the house.

Will Start at Once.

The special committee of the house and senate appointed to investigate the state fair will go to Detroit Friday to begin the job. Just what time will be followed remains to be determined but it is known that one point the committee will particularly take up is the lack of attention which has been given to the agricultural end and it will make some recommendations along this line.

Fight on Insurance Bill.

There is a big fight on against the Ashley fraternal insurance bill which is designed to make fraternal insurance companies as strong as the old line companies. It is backed by practically all the big fraternal insurance companies and insurance Commissioner Palmer, but it is being opposed by a number of insurance societies doing business in Michigan.

Representative Leonard's bill in the house providing for the abolition of the state weather bureau and Representative Ogg's bill providing for the abolition of the state board of mediation and arbitration have passed the house.

Senator Watkins proposes to protect in some measure the blue girls and women who are annually taken out of the lakes and streams in vast numbers. He has introduced a bill limiting the catch to 25 in a day and no person may have more than that number in his possession at one time.

Representatives of nearly all the Michigan railroads have been at Lansing to make a vigorous protest against the bill providing that all passenger coaches must be constructed of steel. They one and all claim such construction is impracticable and that experiment along these lines have not as yet proved successful.

Rep. Plak's resolution favoring the annexation of Canada met a sad fate. First it was tabled, then Rep. Plak moved that the record of the entire proceeding be expunged from the Journal of the House.

Tonnage Tax Dead Again.

The tonnage tax was buried again in the Senate. After the bill had been passed by the house, it was reported that it was not passed.

Senator Moriarty, then moved that all consideration of the measure be indefinitely postponed and this carried by a vote of 15 to 13. The Democrats all voted against this motion as they wished to pass the bill and put it up to the governor for signature in the hopes of making political capital out of the situation. They figured that if Gov. Osborn signed the measure that he would lose all chance of support in the mining regions again and that if he vetoed it that he would lose all his grange following. Some of the Republican Senators were in the deal at first as they were anxious to enable the governor to put when they realized that it was all ammunition for the Democrats they refused to stand with the bill.

After Unlicensed Insurance Companies.

Insurance Commissioner Palmer is after the insurance companies which are not authorized to do business in Michigan, but which evade the law by having introduced in the Senate a bill making it a felony for an adjuster of an unlicensed company to come into Michigan to adjust a loss and in order to accurately tab the companies which are violating the law Rep. Leonard has introduced a bill which amends the corporation act so that each corporation which files a report with the secretary of state must file with it a statement of what life insurance it carries and with what companies. This will enable the insurance department to ascertain what companies are doing business in Michigan unlawfully.

Suffragette Speaks to Legislature.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, the English suffragette who attracted attention a year or so ago by being arrested for landing a short arm jab on a prime minister, or for some such playful trick, addressed the legislature in behalf of women suffrage on Friday. She held a lecture tour of the country and was induced to stop off at Lansing on motion of Rep. Flowers, the champion of woman's rights.

Fraternal Insurance Bill Passes.

The Ashley fraternal insurance bill, which brings fraternal societies under the jurisdiction of the insurance department and which also provides for gradually bringing all fraternal insurance to the same basis as old-line insurance in the matter of stability was passed by the House. It is up against a tough time in the Senate, however, as it is strongly opposed by some insurance companies.

Senator's Paper for Unit Bill.

The Fitzgibbon unit bill, which changes the unit of local option from counties to townships, villages and cities, has received unexpected support. The Grand Rapids Herald, the personal organ of Senator William Alden Smith, is out with an endorsement of the bill in which it declares absolutely for the smaller unit of submission as the only solution of the liquor problem.

Military Bill Recalled.

The military bill passed the House but it was necessary to reconsider the action because it was found that it had introduced in the Senate a bill which had been introduced in the House. The bill was recalled because it was found that it had introduced in the Senate a bill which had been introduced in the House.

To Mark Fruit Packages.

The Verder bill which compels the seller of all fruit to plainly stamp on the box or crate the exact quantity contained has passed the House. The farmers were for the measure because they said that the retailers frequently buy fruit in bulk and then get them in short measure boxes and make an additional profit.

Regents Want Appropriations.

Regents Coid, of Detroit; Seal, of Ann Arbor; and Clements of Bay City, are in Lansing this week endeavoring to get the members of the legislature to pass appropriations which are asked by the University of Michigan. They held a long conference with Gov. Osborn but they are up against a hard proposition because the plan is to cut down all appropriations except those absolutely needed for the maintenance of the state institutions.

A Referendum Bill.

The House has used the referendum on legislation for the first time since the adoption of the new constitution, which provides that the legislature may put any measure it sees fit up to the voters. The referendum was taken on the fraternal insurance bill and if the Senate concurs with the House, the measure will be submitted to the people at the next election.

Communities of less than 50,000 will have school buildings built along sanitary and modern lines as a result of the bill introduced by Representative Leonard. The bill provides that the superintendent of public instruction and the secretary of the state board of health shall have supervision over the erection of all such institutions.

Rep. Ball's bill, which provides for a state fire marshal, has passed the House. This is a measure advocated by Governor Osborn and it is believed will greatly reduce the fire losses in the state.

Senator White's bill compelling supervisors to make annual reports of the financial condition of their townships has passed the Senate. Senator Miller's bill which authorizes the purchase of a new library and reading room for another township has passed the committee of the whole.

Rep. Bricker has introduced a bill in the House providing that all railroads must so arrange their schedules that passenger trains will connect at all junctions with the passenger trains of other roads.

Governor Osborn may not after all have a township named for him. Senator Fowler has introduced a bill providing for the organization of Osborn township in Michigan county. The township is named in honor of the bill because he declares it is an attempt to reward some political workers and is unnecessary.

END OF THE DIAZ REGIME IS SEEN

Dr. BARRA, MEXICAN AMBASSADOR TO U. S., WILL HEAD MEXICO'S NEW CABINET.

BIDS HASTY FAREWELL TO PRESIDENT TAFT TO TAKE CHARGE OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Dr. Barra is Expected to Head the Branch Between Mexico's Warring Factions.

Francisco de la Barra, Mexican ambassador to the United States, was named minister of foreign relations of the Mexican cabinet by President Diaz.

Immediately after telegraphing his acceptance to Mexico City, Senor de Barra went to the White House and informed President Taft. The president expressed pleasure at the ambassador's appointment and congratulated him warmly. As the ambassador had been in Mexico for many years, the president bade him farewell, giving him a picture of himself autographed with a salutation of personal regard.

Senor de Barra also called upon Secretary of State Knox and informed him of the appointment. Mr. Knox congratulated the ambassador and bade him goodbye.

The beginning of the end of the old Diaz regime in Mexico, it is believed has come in the resignation of the entire membership of the presidential cabinet. Gen. Diaz has forced "out" his advisers because they were unwilling to accept his policy in dealing with the revolutionary troubles, or whether they have themselves taken the initiative in order to enforce on him their protest against his attitude.

Senor de Barra is a member, but conclusive as to the main point. There is reason to believe that the vigorous old man, who has made his iron personality the entire government of Mexico for three decades, has himself taken the initiative.

Diaz is the last man, in the opinion of those who have studied his personality and history, to weaken before any opposition. He believes that the mailed fist is the one administrative instrument for handling such a people as the Mexicans, and has never faltered in employing it.

Japan's Emperor Writes to Taft.

President Taft was deeply gratified to receive from the emperor of Japan a message warmly recommending the president's expressions of good will and friendship towards his people and the Japanese ambassador, Baron Uchida, several days ago. Baron Uchida called on the White House and delivered in person the emperor's message.

President Taft has been extremely anxious to set at rest the various rumors of "differences" between the two countries, and especially with reference to the mobilization of troops in Texas. He declared the other day that he was at a loss to understand the motive behind such "malicious and baseless stories." He sent for Baron Uchida to express his sentiments and to convey the message to the emperor.

Militia Measure Passed in House.

The National Guard bill passed the house on the third reading and now goes to the senate. The chances for it in that body are good and as it is one of the measures that Gov. Osborn has been pushing for some time, there is only a question of time when it will be a law. With its enactment into a law the guard will cease to be top-heavy with brigadiers and colonels. In the house Monday afternoon Rep. Graves of Adrian, a civil war veteran, tried to amend the bill to provide that no one should be in the militia unless he was a veteran of the civil war. The measure was fortunate in having as its sponsors in the house two National Guard majors, Rep. Gansser of Bay City and Stewart of Grand Rapids. In the senate it will be looked after by Senator Collins, who is also a National Guard officer.

Government Picks Wireless Station.

The powerful wireless telegraph station of the navy, capable of communicating with naval vessels 2,000, and possibly 3,000 miles distant, from Washington, D. C., has been selected at Fort Myer, just outside the national capital.

This high-powered plant will be designed to keep the headquarters of the American navy in close touch with the war vessels in the Atlantic ocean.

President Taft has written Dr. Booker T. Washington a personal letter expressing his regrets at the notoriety given the colored educator following his alleged escape of last Sunday night when Albert Ulrich, a colored man, was shot dead by a police officer. The president's letter was packed through a keyhole into his apartment, and because he, Washington said "Hello, sweetheart!" to Mrs. Ulrich, his wife.

Employed officers of the Y. M. C. A. held their convention after the general meeting had adjourned in Battle Creek. A membership of nearly 20,000 in Michigan was reported. This is an increase of 13 per cent.

A funeral parade of 10,000 persons without a corpse was sanctioned by Mayor Cannon of New York on application of Orthodox Jewish worshippers at the old Christie Street synagogue, recently destroyed by fire. The ceremonial will mark the burial of sacred relics taken from the ruins and is said to be the first of its kind ever held in America.

Louis E. Ohliger, 70 years old, of Wooster, Ohio, a former congressman, was released from the penitentiary on the completion of a seven-year sentence for his part in the wrecking of the Wooster National bank, of which he was an officer.

Mrs. Louis Nye Godfrey, whose husband commanded a warship during the blockade running in the civil war, and whose father, Solomon I. Barlow, was captain of a ship seized by French privateers in 1798, died in St. Joseph, Mo., aged 92 years. Death was indirectly due to a fall. Mrs. Godfrey was once prominent in Boston society.

TEN PASSENGERS KILLED.

"Dixie Flyer" Crashes Through Trestle Near Ocala, Georgia.

Ten persons are known to have been killed and a score or more injured when an Atlantic Coast Line south-bound train No. 95, known as the "Dixie Flyer," went through a trestle over the Alapaha river, 16 miles east of Ocala, Georgia. The baggage and express cars, two day coaches and a Pullman went into 10 feet of water in the river. Five Pullmans remained on the track.

The injured were transferred to the Atlantic coast line hospital in Waycross, Ga., and the dead were taken to Tipton and Waycross.

According to an official statement the wreck was caused by the breaking of an axle on the engine when midway the trestle, the weight of the train causing the trestle to collapse.

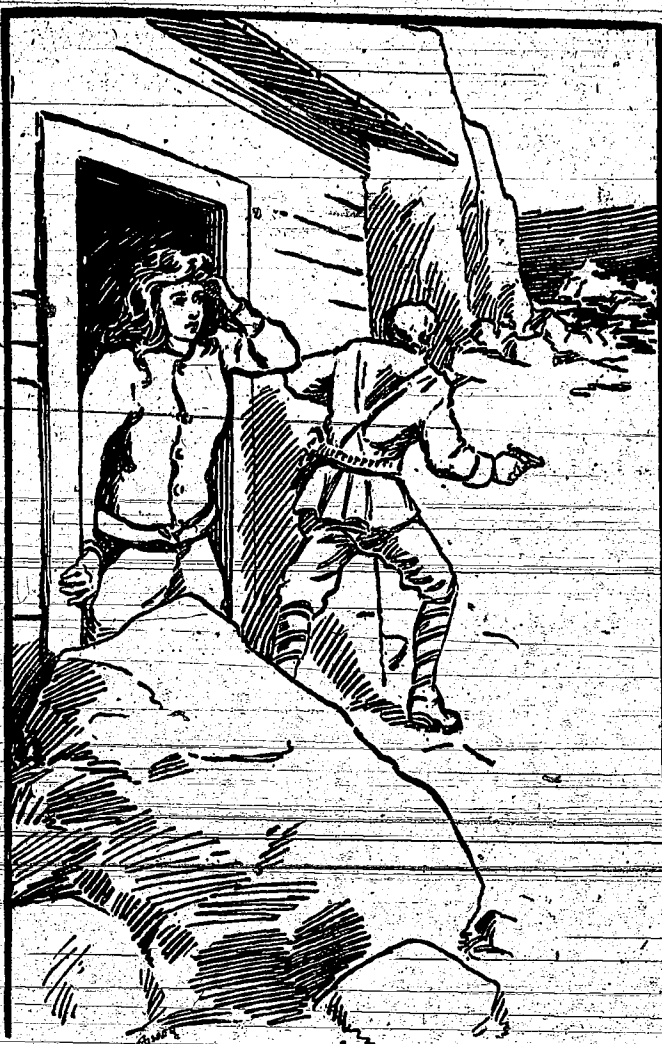

The disaster came without warning and as soon as those in the rear Pullmans realized what had happened they rushed to the edge of the trestle and rendered assistance to the victims.

A training school for nuns is being erected in Traverse City, to which many nuns from northern Michigan will come. It will have a chapel and dormitory.

The Yacht Had Disappeared.

SYNOPSIS.

Philip Cayley, accused of a crime of which he is not guilty, resigns from the army in disgust. His affection for his friend, Lieut. Perry Hunter, turns to hatred. Cayley seeks solitude, where he perfects a flying machine. While soaring over the Arctic regions, he picks up a curious shaped stick he had seen in the Arctic regions. After Cayley departs, the flying machine is discovered by a party of men. The machine is found to be a flying machine. The machine is found to be a flying machine. The machine is found to be a flying machine.

CHAPTER X.—Continued.

The scene before his eyes was beautiful with that stupendous beauty that only the Arctic can attain. The horizon and beyond it, far out to sea, clear to the horizon, was filled with great plunging, churning masses of ice, all drenched in color by the low-hanging Arctic sun. Violet, rose, pure golden-yellow and emerald-green, and a white whose incandescence fairly stabbed the eye.

CHAPTER XI.

The Aurora. "I tell you, sir, the thing is beyond human possibility. There is no help no human help in the world. I would swear to that before God. But I think you must know it as well as I do." Captain Warner, standing upon the Aurora's bridge, was the speaker. The two Fanehaws, father and son, their faces gray with despair, turned away and looked over the great masses of loose, churning, field-ice, which, filling the sea out to the utmost horizon, confirmed the captain's words.

knows," he concluded, "if there were not unless we could fly through the air." It was only an hour since they had ascertained, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that Jeanne was not aboard the Aurora. Until Tom had recovered consciousness, the others had entertained little doubt that she was safely hidden somewhere about the ship.

Making out the unfamiliar figures of the Walrus people on deck, and knowing that they had a right on their hands, they had worked their way, unobserved, to a position. Amidships, they were under cover of a black revolver, they had made it possible for the rest of their party to get aboard.

The Walrus people, several of whom were below, came tumbling up on deck at the sound of firing, and their whole party entrenched itself in the after-deck house. They had found arms of various sorts aboard the Aurora, and made a spirited resistance before they were finally overpowered.

The Aurora's people, under the cool-headed command of Warner and the elder Fanehaw, had proceeded in a brisk, scientific, military style that had spared them many serious casualties. When it was over, and one or two of a more heroic nature. None of them had been killed.

The Walrus people, however, had not surrendered until their plight was wholly desperate. Only two of them were left alive, and two of those were mortally wounded when the struggle ceased.

The uninjured were heavily ironed and locked up in the stateroom. All the wounded—friends and foes alike—were turned over to the care of the yacht's surgeon and a couple of volunteer assistants from among the crew.

Altogether, it was two or three hours after the Aurora's people had regained undisputed possession of the yacht before it was possible to form any definite idea of what had happened. In the excitement and the necessity of everybody doing two or three things at once, Tom Fanehaw and his serious the level of my eyes; and I pass for a tall man." His father abandoned the subject abruptly, and for a while contrived to talk of other things; of the details of the fight and how different members of the crew had borne themselves.

The Two Older Men Exchanged a Quick Glance.

For a while they sat, side by side, upon his great sheepskin, warming their fingers and watching the drip of the melting ice in the biscuit tin. But presently Cayley got to his feet. "Breakfast!" he said.

"Is there to be anything besides a good big drink of water apiece? If there isn't, I'd rather not think about it until the yacht comes back."

"Unless I'm mistaken, there's an excellent breakfast waiting for us not far from where we got the fire-wood. But I'll go and make sure before I raise your expectations any higher."

He walked away a half-dozen paces without waiting for any reply; then, thinking suddenly of something else, he came swiftly back again.

"Do you know anything about firearms?" he asked. "If you're accustomed to shooting, I'll leave my revolver with you. No," he went on, answering the question which she had not spoken—"no, I don't foresee any danger to you. It's just on general

He shook his head, and she drew down her lips in mock dismay. "Is there anything to eat anywhere?" she questioned, sweeping her arm around her.

150 LIVES LOST IN FIRE IN NEW YORK

GIRLS IN FACTORY CAUGHT IN TRAP LEAP TO DEATH—NO FIRE ESCAPES.

BURST OF FLAME IMPRISONED 700 SHIRTWAIST HANDS—PANIC SEIZES VICTIMS.

Blaze Confined to Three Upper Stories of Ten-Story Building, Does Its Death-Dealing Work in About Twenty Minutes.

One hundred and fifty persons, the great majority of them East Side Jewish girls, met death in its most awful form in New York city in the short space of time between 4:50 and 5:10 o'clock Saturday. They either leaped screaming to their death on the hard pavement or fell back burned and suffocated into the burning eighth, ninth and tenth floors of the building at 23 Washington Place, occupied as a factory by the Tri-ange shirtwaist company, which was not provided with a solitary outside fire escape, although 700 operators, 500 of them women, daily worked on these floors.

Cause of the Fire a Mystery. How the fire started will perhaps never be known. A corner on the eighth floor was its point of origin, and the three upper floors only were swept. On the ninth floor fifty bodies were found; sixty-three or more persons were crushed to death by jumping and more than thirty clogged the elevator shafts. The loss to property will not exceed $100,000.

Terrible Rain of Flesh and Blood. "Don't jump! Don't jump!" yelled the crowd. But the girls had no alternative. The pressure of the mad, dazed throngs behind them—and the urgency of their own fears—were too strong. They began to fall to the sidewalk in a terrible rain of flesh and blood.

The building stands on a corner, with exposure on two sides, but the only fire escape, an ancient iron opening on a light and airy shaft, in all there were seven exits—the single fire escape, two freight elevators in front, and two stairways. All of them proved almost useless. The girls, who had been crowded either climbed to the roof of the building occupied by the American Book company, adjoining, or fled in the first rush for safety, before the crush and the smoke grew too thick.

Building Stands Monument to Havoc. The building still stands with shell intact and barely scarred—evidence only of the terrible destruction of architectural tiling between floor and floor are sound, and it is impossible for one who did not see it to imagine how the flames in so short a space had done wrought such havoc.

Seven hundred hands, 500 of them women, were employed by the shirtwaist company. They sat in rows, at their whirling machines, the tables before them piled with flimsy cloth, the floors littered with lint, the air itself full of flying, inflammable dust. The first rush of flame was almost an explosion—flames, millions of feet of flame, leaped from the windows, their lungs seared by inhaling flame. Others were crowded into the elevator shafts after the cars had made their last trip. Still others were pushed off the inadequate interior fire escape.

Old Cell Block Must Go. That the old, vermin infested cell block at Jackson prison is a burning shame and a disgrace to Michigan, ought to be felt by every citizen of this state. The legislature, acting for the people, ought to take action to this end, and that action to this end ought to be taken immediately for sanitary and humanitarian reasons. The issue put squarely up to the legislative committee in session at Jackson by J. M. Higgins, of Detroit, with several Detroiters whom he has interested in the wretched condition of the ancient cell block, went to Jackson to urge the legislature, through its special committee to act at once for the eradication of the Jackson evil.

Gov. Osborn has officially requested the war department to detail Capt. F. W. Fuger, of the Thirtieth Infantry, now in Texas with his regiment, as inspector of the Michigan National Guard. He was formerly professor of military tactics at the M. A. C. The guard has been without an inspector since Capt. Dorey left.

Architects War on Skyscrapers

The Pittsburgh Architectural club is anxious that Pittsburgh's skyline in the future shall not resemble a comb which has been in use for many years; that is, a comb from which many teeth have departed, leaving it very irregular and broken up. The club has declared war on skyscrapers. Resolutions recommending that a city ordinance be passed regulating the height of all buildings in proportion to the width and importance of the streets on which they stand have been adopted. The architects declare that they appreciate the

Monday's Child

By Temple Bailey

(Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press)

Everybody had spoiled Grace. She had been such a pretty little girl. "But what could you expect," her little mother had said, "she is Monday's child, and fair of face."

It seems as if that struck the keynote of Grace's existence. Her fairness, which developed as she grew older into radiant beauty, was the excuse for everything. Bad temper, indolence, were overlooked because Grace had golden hair and brown eyes.

As she grew to womanhood, men and women bowed before her. At school-bells fluttered after her like butterflies about a rose. The girls adored her while they envied her, and so Grace went on, a little queen surrounded by her subjects.

It was not until she met Jack Martin that she began to realize that beauty is not everything. "It took her a long time to come to this decision. She wondered why she could not subjugate Jack. He was never among the circle of her admirers.

The climax came at a dance at the Country club. Jack Martin was the only man with an automobile in the little suburb where they both resided. Grace, as the acknowledged belle of the community, felt that it was beneath her dignity to go in a hired cab or carriage when she might have the elegance of Martin's motor.

Therefore she smiled her sweetest at Jack Martin very time she met him, and was rewarded by having him take little Lillie Lane, whose straight hair and sallow skin gave her no claim to loveliness.

As the days went on Jack Martin was seen often with Lillie Lane. Grace could not understand it. She wore pale blue gowns, and lavender gowns, and pink ones, and was comely and aware that her beauty bloomed delicately in all of them, yet Jack Martin paid no more attention to her than to the goldenrod which grew at the roadside. She concluded that she must make some effort to swing him away from his indifference. She studied his habits, and found that he took long walks in the early morning. The object of these walks, Lillie Lane said, was the sight of the sea at dawn. He was painting a picture, and he carried his camp stool and easel to a bluff that overlooked the beach.

She Was a Spirit of the Dawn Personified.

It was not easy for Grace to get up early, but one October morning she sallied forth in the gray light. She wore a gray sweater and a gray skirt, and around her head was a veil of rosy chiffon. She was a spirit of the dawn personified. "She came upon Jack Martin silently, and as he turned and saw her he gave a start of surprise.

"I wanted to see your picture," she told him confidently. "How did you know I was painting it?" he asked.

"Lillie Lane told me," she said. "Oh, Lillie!" he said eagerly. "She paints beautifully herself; have you seen her minutiae?"

"No," Grace answered coldly. "She is a wonder," Jack said. "Some day she is going to be great, and we'll be proud to know her."

"I don't see anything very wonderful about Lillie," Grace remarked, and she certainly isn't pretty.

"Oh, beauty," Jack shrugged his shoulders. "Doesn't count much in these days."

Grace looked at him startled. That was a new point of view. "What does count?" she demanded. "Oh, brains, personality, charm," he said, picking up his brushes. "Lillie Lane has all of these. I think she is not appreciated in our town, however."

"Perhaps you had," was his discouraging statement. She stood up disconsolately. "I see," she said somewhat timidly. "I wish that there was something I could do that was worth while."

For the first time he turned and looked at her with interest. "There are lots of things," he said, briskly. "You ought to be able to take up music or singing. It seems to me that you have some talent in that line."

Some talent! Grace had prided herself on her nice voice. It was not a big voice, but she had been able to charm her followers, and that was all she cared.

But this man demanded something more of her. She said good-by, and went away slowly, unaware that his eyes followed her, and that a little smile dawned in them.

The next day she sought out Lillie Lane. "Lillie," she said, "you seem to make life worth living—tell me what I can do."

Lillie was enthusiastic, and while she talked of her painting Grace was forced to admit that the dark little girl had much of charm in manner and face.

"No wonder Jack Martin loves her," she thought. "She is just sweet."

"Lillie was a great help to Grace. She showed the spoiled beauty that besides admiration and adulation, there was something else in the world."

It was Jack Martin who made me see it," Grace fattered, "but he isn't my friend as he is yours, Lillie."

"Why, he is," Lillie said. "He thinks you are perfectly lovely."

Grace looked at her, bewildered. "I don't believe he ever thinks of me."

"Well, he talks about you a lot," Lillie stated, but Grace would not be convinced. For so many months she had suffered from his indifference and criticism that she had no vanity left, and it was Lillie he cared for.

Therefore, when Lillie came to her with a ring on her third finger and said, "I have a secret to tell you," Grace felt her heart grow cold within her, but she answered calmly:

"I think I know your secret; you're going to be married."

"But how did you know?" Lillie asked. "I thought no one had heard of it but Jack Martin."

"Of course he knew it," said Grace. "Yes," said Lillie, "I told him first, he was a chum of Bob's at college."

"Bob?" Grace's voice expressed astonishment. "Why—I thought you were engaged to Jack!"

"Oh, you silly. Jack was nice to me because of Bob, and because we both paint, that's all."

It seemed to Grace that the world took on a new radiance. Perhaps, oh, perhaps, if she tried she might make him like her a little.

The next morning she saw him at dawn. His picture was almost finished, and as she came up to him, he said:

"Let me show it to you."

It was just an expanse of sea lighted up by the rosiest of the rising sun.

"How lovely it is," Grace said, softly. "How beautiful!"

Then she looked up at him. "Yet you said that beauty didn't count much."

JANE'S ROMANCE

By Temple Bailey

(Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press)

Jane Smith was romantic. In spite of her plain name—or because of it—she hated plain things and plain, practical people. Therefore, despite the fact that she loved him and that she had been his constant companion from childhood and that he was eminently suitable, she refused Tom Anson when he proposed to her in direct and simple language.

"You are waiting for some fairy prince to come along," commented her father, bitterly, when he had extracted the truth from her. "Better come down out of the clouds and accept a good, sensible man while you have the chance. There are not many Tom Ansons."

Shortly after plain Tom Anson had been sent away so unceremoniously Jane was riding on the small lake that bordered on her father's estate, near the high road, when her canoe upset and she found herself floundering in the water.

At the psychological moment a large motor car rounded a sharp curve in the road, chugging like a red demon, and Jane's heart, beneath her soaked linen bodice, gave a leap.

Her Prince Charming, at last! It was evident that he had seen beauty in distress at the first glance and was gallantly coming to the rescue. The crimson car, with a final, indignant snort, was rounded in on the high road and brought to a standstill. The occupant threw aside cap, goggles and other impediments instantaneously and with incredible speed had reached the water and plunged in.

The handsome stranger carried her dripping but happy up the bank. She allowed herself the luxury of leaning against his shoulder until he had dried her face upon a corner of the linen duster coat in the car and made no demur as he placed her on the front seat where he could support her as he steered.

On that short drive homeward she learned all about her handsome rescuer. He was the young Lord Fitz Maurice, to whom the estate adjoining her father's had fallen some years previously; he had just arrived from foreign parts to look over his ancestral property with a view to repainting and, later, inhabiting the old place.

During the next few weeks Jane went about with dreamy eyes. Every afternoon, at a certain hour, she was met near the lake by the mysterious red motor car and when she returned, pink-cheeked from her stolen ride, she had listened to more romantic nonsense in two hours than simple Tom Anson would have told her in six months.

It had gone so far that she had promised to marry her brave rescuer, unconditionally, any day and hour that he might name, when one day she begged the privilege of meeting her in her own home.

"In secret, of course, love," Jane said. "That night, when everyone had retired to the upper regions, it was Jane's own fair hand that unlocked the hall door and at his bidding, left it so, while he made fervid and furious love to her in the drawing room.

When the clock struck a low whistle without causing the young lord to start to his feet hastily.

"What, so late already? Ah, I could linger by your side forever, but duty calls me. Farewell. That was my chauffeur's warning. Tomorrow at the usual trysting place!"

With that he was gone and Jane was about to lock the door behind him. Then, following a romantic impulse—much easier for Jane than simply being sensible—she slipped down to the gate behind him, stealing along in the shadow unobserved. At the gate she had meant to step out and surprise him, but just then a muffled figure rose from behind a clump of yew and, lifting up a gasp which something-clicked, tossed it under the seat of the big red car.

"Get on all!" came from her prince in an eager whisper, with a furtive backward glance at the darkened windows of the house behind them.

"Sure," was the laconic answer, and the car and its occupants shot down the road, leaving Jane to stare, open-mouthed, after it.

The explanation came next morning and with it her prince's reasons for maintaining such strict incognito were made clear to Jane.

There was not a place of aliver left in her father's establishment, not even a teaspoon, save some plated stuff that practiced eyes could have told at a glance was practically worthless!

Jane ventured one question as she sat with her father in the library that afternoon at the hour she should have kept her tryst.

"Do you know where the young Lord Fitz Maurice is coming home?"

"The young lord?" her father stared at her in amazement. "There isn't any young lord. The property went out of the hands of the Fitz Maurices ten years ago and belongs to a bald-headed widower named Griggs."

"Oh," breathed Jane.

That night Tom Anson, encouraged by something in Jane's manner, put the momentous question once more. And he was promptly and unequivocally accepted.

The Other Legs. Benham—I don't see how you got around in your hobble skirt.

CAT WAS REVERED IN JAPAN

She Lived in Temples and Was Known as the Guardian of the Manuscripts.

According to a Japanese writer, the domestic cat appeared in his country at a relatively recent epoch, having traveled from China with the missionaries of Buddhism. In the middle of the sixteenth century of the Christian era sacrifices were offered to the cat, which was known by all as "the guardian of the manuscripts."

"The guardian of the manuscripts" kept away the mice, who otherwise would have eaten the precious papers. In some instances places were set in conspicuous places among manuscripts as a warning to the mice: Beware! The cat is here. She drives the mice. Portraits of cats were also placed in places frequented by mice.

The cats were revered. For a long time they were kept in the temples. But their beauty, their general desirability and the charm of their grace, affection for man and adaptability to human conditions, as appealed to the layman that one by one very gradually their kittens were permitted to leave the temples and to become the pets of the nobility. After entering the families of the high officials of the Empire they won their way into humbler households.

NEW WAY TO CURE BALDNESS

Work in Cold Storage Plant or Go to Arctic Regions and Your Hair Will Grow.

The latest "universal hair grower" discovered is a trip to the Arctic regions, or falling time and inclination for that, employment in a cold storage company. According to Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer, extreme cold is one of the best means of strengthening the hair. In the course of an interview recently, Sir Ernest said:

"All of the men who went with me on the south pole expedition with one or two exceptions possessed stronger crops of hair on their return to civilization."

"Extreme cold undoubtedly strengthens one's hair. As our party approached the south pole our hair grew more slowly, but became thicker and stronger."

An official of a London cold storage company, interviewed on the same subject, stated that there was not a bald-headed man in the employ of the company. He said that the men worked all day in a temperature of 20 degrees of frost and the cold undoubtedly made their hair thicker.

Covers Much Space.

A New York department store gets out a poster that contains interesting facts for the curious. Here are some of the store's features which it mentions: Ten freight elevators, 26 passenger elevators, 120 flights of stairs, 1,020 telephone stations, 8,000 automatic sprinklers, 17 miles of pneumatic tubes with 370 stations, 22,000,000 pounds of steel, 321,400 feet of concrete in foundations, a mile and a half of showcases, 25 miles of steam-circulation pipe, 2,400 steel columns, 24,040 incandescent lamps, 45 show windows with the largest plate glass in New York, 5,250,000 bricks used in erection, 540,000 feet of copper wiring for lighting, 890 separate departments, 250,000 square feet, or nearly 27 acres of wood flooring, which gives the floor space 800,000 square feet of plaster surface, 100,000 square feet of outside window glass.

American Robins in England.

An attempt has been made to introduce the American robin into Surrey, with apparent success. Six pairs of loose last June near Guildford have reared about 40 nestlings. The name of our robin was given by the Pilgrim Fathers to the largest and most numerous of the American thrushes (Turdus migratorius), because of its red breast, and friendly association with man.

The American robin is closely related to our blackbird, and has a sweet, melodious song. Its introduction to Surrey will be regarded by market gardeners with much misgiving, for though his food consists chiefly of worms or insects, he works and havoc among the cherries. Westminster Gazette.

Character in Women's Walk.

An observing man insists that he can tell a woman's character by the manner of walking and the kind of shoes she wears. He says that the listless way of lifting one's feet indicates laziness or ill health. A heavy, footed step means a good housekeeper, but an aggressive nature. A dragging, shuffling step denotes indolence of mind and body. He observes further that the woman who likes mannish shoes is not daftly of feminine shoes and that the ideal woman wears well-fitting shoes in the street and dainty slippers in the house.

Expensive Furs.

Actresses who wish to assert victorious power in their toilet have a plan for rich furs. The supply grows scarcer and the demand rapidly rises. The skin of the Andes rat now costs, first hand, 90 francs. It is this little animal that gives us the beautiful Chilli fur, now so prized for motor wear, tulle, and evening gowns. A further rise is expected, the Russian government having forbidden the export of the pelts of the Andes rat. Furs have fallen back on the skin of the opossum, which costs but eight francs.

LONG LIFE EASILY ATTAINED

Prof. Metchnikoff Has Simple Scheme to Secure Longevity.

It is well known that the average length of human life has been considerably prolonged in the last century owing to a better understanding and better fulfillment of private and public hygienic conditions. Few, however, attain old age, especially that of 100 years or more, and among these very few enjoy all their physical and mental powers. Prof. Metchnikoff, of the Pasteur Institute of Paris, shows the causes of decrepitude of premature weakening. He demonstrates that certain cells constituting the human organism become moribund and devour the nobler cells of the body. He points out a special danger, the intestinal worms and the poisons of toxine elaborated thereby, which penetrate the system and cause the hardening and degeneration of tissues.

The professor goes further and says that man can overcome and improve these intestinal worms and their toxins. The most practical and easy way is, said he, to drink a beverage which contains the germs of lactic acid fermentation, whose antagonism to the bad germs he has demonstrated.

Distorted Compliment.

"Very gratifying," said the young and conceited novelist. "A gentleman writes me that he took a copy of my last work to read during a railway journey, and as a result suddenly discovered he had gone 20 miles beyond his destination." "Pardon me," commented the young author's friend, "sleeping on trains is a bad habit!"—Story Stories.

Makes Celluloid Fireproof.

M. Gervin, a French chemist, has patented a process for rendering the deadly celluloid hair brush and comb safe from explosion when it comes accidentally in contact with the flame of a gas burner. According to a consultant report, this result is obtained by adding to a celluloid mass in course of preparation, just at the moment when it is most liquid, a certain quantity of salts—phosphates, bicarbonate of ammonia, or magnesia. Celluloid, thus prepared, when touched by fire or a flame, gives out a gas that checks combustion. In fact, immersion of articles made of celluloid in solutions of any of these salts reduces its inflammability.

SOME MAN SOME DAY

May Make A Medicine To Cure Bright's Disease Rheumatism, Stomach And Bladder Trouble The Equal of

SAN-JAK

But Not Yet

It Is The Only Medicine Which Enables You To Keep A Perfect Balance Between The Eliminations And Renewals of The Body.

Decay Of The Body In Old Age Is Unnatural.

Permanent wastes of the system can be avoided by taking San-Jak making each day a birthday for the person who has a bottle of this great medicine on hand. Read and learn how to cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lame Back and Stomach Diseases.

When the products of exhaustion reach the brain and deaden the nerve centers, as is the case with all old people, limiting their ability to think and act unless they have the power to oxidize the acids that accumulate during sleep and slinking, then they had better get a bottle of Dr. Burnham's San-Jak. I am 80 years old and have kept a bottle of this medicine in my house during the past year and take a dose quite often so I know it helps to give strength and activity. E. O. Kelley, Lansing, Mich. 311 Washenaw St.

Mrs. M. I. Brown, mistress of the Butler House, Lansing, Mich., says: "One year ago I was in very poor health and was weak from that dreaded disease, kidney trouble, called Bright's Disease by physicians. I have taken about one dozen bottles of San-Jak and have no symptoms of old trouble to annoy me. I give this letter for the benefit it may be to others."

E. S. Hough, Ex-Judge of Probate, Lapeer, Mich., says: "I bought a bottle of San-Jak from F. A. Snowman, the druggist of Lapeer. I felt I was 100 years old with great distress of the stomach and a drowsy, sleepy feeling, which the medicine has corrected. I cheerfully permit the use of this letter for the benefit of others."

Edgar S. Hough, Lapeer, Mich. March 10, 1908.

Mrs. T. H. Curtis, R. F. D. No. 2, Lapeer, says: "I wish to tell you how much good your San-Jak has done me. I have had kidney trouble, and liver trouble 17 years. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen so I could not wear my shoes. I have taken one and one-half bottles of your remedy. The bloating has all gone down. The pain has gradually left and the stiff joints are getting more limber. I think three or four bottles of your San-Jak will cure me completely. More than in words is a feeble way of telling how grateful I feel for the benefits bestowed upon me by your medicine."

We will give $100 to any church or charitable institution if these testimonials are not genuine.

Have you Kidney, Liver, Stomach or Bladder Trouble?

Are you a Rheumatic with Backache, Varicose and Swollen Limbs?

Take Dr. Burnham's SAN-JAK

It restores the aged to health and youth. No remedy equal to San-Jak as a blood tonic. The tired feeling leaves you like magic.

J. F. Roe, 43 E. Main St., Battle Creek, says: "I wish to state that your San-Jak cured me of Bright's disease after the local doctors said I could not live."

W. E. Curtis, Curtis Optical Parlors, Pontiac, Mich., says: "San-Jak cured him of catarrh of the head and throat which was so chronic he could cause great distress, his general health is better than for several years. He has gained ten pounds in two weeks. He says it is a duty he owes his fellow men to permit the use of this letter, knowing that the same San-Jak has secured others of my friends whom I suggested they try it. He says it is good to be rid of the constant hacking coughing, scraping and my wife says what a relief to be able to sleep nights without being disturbed with the constant coughing and night sweats."

San-Jak is sold by the Central Drug Store, Grayling, Mich.
